PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO
DEFENDANT'S RESPONSE TO RENEWED
MOTION TO EXTEND DISPOSITIVE
MOTION DEADLINE

Plaintiffs' acknowledge that a tentative date was considered for the deposition of Mrs. Martin but was of the opinion that that date was not certain. There was no intent to mislead the Court. Mrs. Martin is in extreme discomfort and begs counsel to attempt to get her deposition reset near the end of the month. No schedules were agreed upon for the people that Plaintiff sought to depose. Principle among these witnesses is Defendant, Judge Gordon. Judge Gordon's deposition is expected to last a full day. There are a series of one to two hour depositions that the Plaintiffs wish to take. These depositions are essential not only to establish the facts of the case but to also prevent surprise and the inability to respond to post deposition Affidavits and/or Declarations from these witnesses.

The parties moving all of these depositions to the end of the month, if no extension is granted for the dispositive motions, will work an extreme hardship on the Plaintiff. Counsel is a single practice office with no support personnel. To review documents, notate their relevance, research the law and draft both an affirmative and a defensive brief, all within a week, will prove taxing if not impossible. On behalf of the Plaintiffs, counsel apologizes for the role he played in creating this effective discovery deadline crunch.

Respectfully submitted
